

Curricular Considerations in CONTEMPORARY ART EDUCATION

ONLINE

Art is re-imagining the status quo, it is about hyper-awareness, self-reflection, critical examination, transformation, and innovation. Art Education is about reaching every kind of student and helping them be curious and expressive.

Explore ways of encouraging students to make art that is not only authentic but truly their own.

Receive 10 hours of professional development with art educator Richard Kim as you re-think curriculum. During this course you will examine applicable strategies for keeping art content and assignments current and relevant to your students. Course work will motivate educators to be creative with their curriculum and take risks in developing art assignments that empower all students.

Enjoy twelve sessions addressing topics such as:

- How do you generate ideas to create Contemporary lessons?
- What informs the direction of a lesson and how to develop those lessons?
- How can we adjust our pedagogy to engage students in contemporary practices?
- What Contemporary Art Practices are missing from K-12 Art curriculum?
- How do you give permission to explore while building student confidence?

Certificate of Attendance supplied for a maximum of 10 hours.

Module 1: Deconstructing Foundational Skills

Learn strategies for reimagining foundational skills in art and how to evaluate your curriculum.

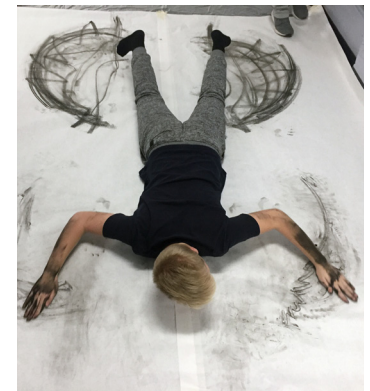

Module 2: Strategies in Developing New Language

Identify alternative ways of talking about art and artmaking outside of traditional approaches.

Module 3: Strategies in Developing New Lessons

Discover ways of generating ideas for crafting contemporary lessons including where to get references and what informs the direction your lessons take.

Module 4: Process in Contemporary Practice & Pedagogy

Consider what impacts your own pedagogy while exploring how to discern and define the relationship between student engagement and the creative process.

In addition to providing an opportunity for self-reflection through a series of exercises, this course also offers supplemental readings, art educator interviews, and student testimonials for added inspiration!

Learn more at DavisArt.com/PD.

